TODAY'S QUOTE

Jim Donald, Regatta committee secretary: Be a Regatta hat wearer and wear a Regatta hat. Kelowna is known everywhere by this hat. It is a symbol of the world's great water show.

THEN SOMETHING HAPPENED TO THE RUBINS!

Mayor R. F. Parkinson welcomed to Kelowna today the first visitor of the week chosen by the Kelowna visitors and convention committee. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rubin and their daughter Joyce, 15, of Edmonton, were presented with a fruit pack, compliments of the Retail Merchants Association, by the mayor. Bubbled over with excitement, Joyce said, "There is a slogan in our house, nothing ever happens to the Rubins. This is one time we sure can't say it." The Rubins arrived in Kelowna Sunday and will be staying until this coming Monday. "We are having a wonderful time, swimming, eating fruit and shopping. We are so excited at being chosen visitor of the week. It's the nicest thing that ever happened to us," the Rubins said. (Story on Page 3).

Plebiscite Approved For College In Valley

Student Loan Bill Passed 137-14

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commonsense federal proposal to assist education. The loan bill had been debated in the House of Commons for a vote of 137 to 14, on the eighth day of debate.

The bill was opposed by six French-speaking Conservative MPs from Quebec and the eight Creditistes present.

Voting in favor were 16 Liberals, 50 Conservatives, eight New Democrats and three Social Credit MPs, including Marcel Lessard (LaSalle) who was applauded by Liberal backbenchers.

The measure now goes to the Senate.

The bill's opponents objected during the protracted debate that provincial rights over education and civil rights are infringed by the federal plan to guarantee bank and credit union loans to needy university students.

In a brief debate today before third reading, MPs clashed on Quebec's place in Confederation.

Arnold Peters (NDP - Timiskaming) accused Quebec MPs in all parties of "sabotaging"

Bennett Set On B.C. Bank

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett said Thursday night that he is not trying to threaten the B.C. senate, but British Columbia is going to have a bank one way or another.

Returning from Ottawa where he testified before the senate banking committee on application for a charter for a Bank of British Columbia, the premier told interviewers he is still confident that the bank will get a federal charter, despite the committee's action in postponing a decision.

He said he based his confidence partly on a series of talks he had with MPs of various parties just before he left Ottawa.

But, the premier said, if for some reason the senate does not approve the charter, B.C. will go into the finance business one way or another. One way might be through establishment of treasury branches, such as those in Alberta. Another would be through trust companies.

This, he conceded, "would be second best and it will not be the complete answer to making B.C. a major financial centre of Canada. But it is a partial answer."

"We cannot sit idly by and let the people of our province continue to be held back," the premier stressed, that he was well-treasured by the senate committee.

Date For Poll Not Yet Set But Likely "Soon As Possible"

Long-awaited authorization for a plebiscite on a regional college for the Okanagan was received Thursday night by the board of School District No. 23, Kelowna.

Making the announcement at the regular meeting of the board, C. D. Buckland, board chairman, said he would assume all the 10 school boards involved in the proposed college had received the same permission from the minister of education.

"I will contact Harry Lyster, president of the Okanagan Valley Trustees branch immediately and suggest all school districts hold their plebiscite on the same day, and as soon as possible," Mr. Buckland told the board.

The college council will decide where the college is to be, how large it will be and what courses it will offer.

"When the government approves the council's plan for the college then a money plebiscite will be held to finance the program."

SIMPLE MAJORITY "The initial plebiscite we hope to hold soon is on an individual school district basis and a simple majority will suffice to pass it. When it comes to the money plebiscite it will be held on a regional basis and a 60 per cent majority is necessary," said Mr. Macklin.

On Jan. 28, 1963, John B. Macdonald, president of UBC, in his report on the future of higher education in B.C., urged the establishment of a college to serve the Okanagan. He chose a site across the lake from Kelowna.

Since then the school districts in the Valley have been unable to get together on a site and this plebiscite has been set up to solve the problem.

"As soon as the division of monies is decided the college

Vernon Council Hassle Hits Fog of Indecision

VERNON (Staff) — The aldermen of Vernon have once more found themselves caught up in the web of controversy.

Ald. Harold Thorlakson made this statement following his announcement saying council had agreed to resign.

"Due to the mayor's refusal to accept the decision of the majority of council on his resignation, and as a result of this, further serious deterioration of council co-operation and respect, making it impossible for the members to make constructive decisions in the best interests of the city."

"And also, because we are standing on the threshold of one of the largest projects in the history of Vernon and constructive decisions are absolutely necessary."

"And because the citizens of Vernon deserve better leadership than they are now getting, and the only way out of this mess and stalemate is to let the people make the decision.

"I spearheaded a move to get the aldermen to agree to resign along with the mayor and go to the people. I then discussed the matter with the city solicitor and it was from his office that I called Ald. Ron Armitage and asked him to meet with me, which he agreed to do."

"I informed Ald. Armitage of my feelings on the matter and after we discussed it further, he agreed that the only answer to the problem was for the entire council to resign."

"I also informed him of the junior chamber of commerce meeting in the evening and that the aldermen should be in a position to answer to the charges of the junior chamber if possible."

"It was suggested by Ald. Armitage that I contact the rest of the members of council to get their reaction to the proposal. I further informed him that if there were any dissenting members I would set up a meeting in the evening to try to come to some unanimous conclusion."

"I contacted all the aldermen except Ald. F. J. Teller and they agreed to resign."

Chinese And Malays Fight For 4th Day In Singapore

SINGAPORE — Chinese and Malays fought for the fourth day in Singapore today, raising the official death toll to 19. But police said the racial clashes were getting smaller and less frequent.

More than a dozen new incidents occurred during the daily morning break in the curfew to permit food purchases, but police and troops quickly restored order and herded stragglers off the streets at gunpoint.

Another curfew break was scheduled for the afternoon.

Official casualty figures showed 197 injured since the riots began, but the unofficial count placed the injured at close to 400.

More than 1,400 persons, mostly Chinese, have been arrested by the 7,000 police and combat troops trying to check the riots on the island.

Malay and Chinese headmen of various communities on the island met Thursday night. They agreed on temporary arrangements to restore order, but details were not available.

Lee Kuan Yew, state premier of Singapore who is of Chinese descent, blamed the riots on the Malays extremists.

U.S., Vietnamese At Odds Over Conduct Of Conflict

SAIGON (Reuters) — The United States and South Vietnam were reported at odds today over the conduct of the war against the pro-Communist Viet Cong.

A meeting between the American ambassador, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, and Premier Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh was reported to have revealed strong differences of opinion between Washington and Saigon.

Informed sources said the Americans asked that the differences aired at the Taylor-Khanh meeting not be made public.

But diplomatic sources indicated the United States was concerned by some of the "march northward" statements expressed in Saigon in the last week.

There was a feeling among American authorities that the Saigon government was trying to drag the U.S. into an extension of the war with the Viet Cong.

STATEMENTS BY KY Reliable sources said the meeting between Khanh and Taylor dealt with statements by Air Commodore Nguyen Cao Ky Wednesday. Ky was reported to have attended the meeting Thursday.

The air force commander-in-chief said it was necessary to extend military action inside Communist territory.

He also said his men were "ready" for possible attack on North Viet Nam. He said guerrillas were being dropped into North Viet Nam.

The sources said apart from what Ky had said about a possible air attack on South Viet Nam, the U.S. felt there should have been no mention of any clandestine South Vietnamese guerrilla offensive that might be going on in the north.

Arabs Seek Canada's Aid

TORONTO (CP) — An Arab League spokesman Thursday urged Canada to act as a mediator to restore good relations between the United States and Britain on the one hand and the Arabs on the other.

In a service club address, Sami Hadawi, public relations director for the New York office of the Arab States delegations, said the West must weigh the advantages and disadvantages of friendship with Israel and its 2,000,000 Jews against the hostility of 100,000,000 Arabs controlling east-west transportation routes and two-thirds of the world's oil.

Woman, 21, Recounts Ordeal While Hostage Of Bandits

HUNTSVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Cobden. The two men gave up quietly.

"They repeatedly pointed their guns at me and threatened to kill me... at one time, one of them threatened to put the gun in my mouth and pull the trigger."

This is how Mrs. Jean Millar, 21-year-old mother of two, described her ordeal after she was taken hostage by two gunmen who Thursday held up the Cobden, Ont., bank in which she worked.

"But they didn't do anything to me," she said in a relaxed voice in a telephone interview early today, more than 12 hours after the holdup.

She was brought to the police station here with the two men who were arrested at gunpoint at an Algonquin Park gate, some 25 miles east of here and about 150 road miles from the quiet Okanagan Valley village of Later, they took a farmer's car and continued the journey. Mrs. Millar said the gunmen drove with her in the 1958-model car through Douglas, some 15 miles south of Cobden, along a back road to Eganyville and then through Algonquin Park toward Huntsville.

As they were leaving the park at the west gate, "a police officer asked for the guy's licence. Then he pulled his gun and asked us to get out."

Two policemen drove Mrs. Millar and the gunmen to Huntsville in the stolen car. The arrest happened about 12:20 a.m. EDT today.

Barry Meets Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Against a backdrop of harsh words, Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater talks with President Johnson today about steps "to avoid any inflating of trouble" over civil rights in the presidential campaign before the Nov. 3 general election.

"I don't want to exploit the campaign in any way that will cause disorder," the Arizona senator said Thursday night.

He talked with reporters just after he had voted against Johnson's $497,500,000 program to combat poverty. The Senate passed the bill 62 to 33. It now goes to the House of Representatives.

Goldwater said he is not going to propose a formal agreement with Johnson to keep the explosive side of civil rights out of politics in the months ahead. And he said he does not want to discuss the new civil rights law, which he opposed in the Senate.

Be A Regatta Hat Wearer And Win Tickets To Show . . .

Wear a Regatta Hat and win a pair of tickets to the Regatta Night shows.

This is what everyone will have a chance to do. Starting July 25, and continuing until Regatta, two tickets will be given away daily to some lucky person.

Once a day, the hidden man in the hidden spot, will pick the first person coming along wearing a Regatta hat, and present him with the tickets. Both the downtown and the shopping centre areas will be covered.

"The Regatta committee hopes to persuade everyone to wear their hat, and free tickets should be an added incentive," Jim Donald, secretary, said today.

"Be a Hooster. Wear a Regatta Hat" is not just a slogan. The Regatta is known everywhere by its hat, and if Kelowna people feel proud of their town and the Regatta, they must realize the importance of wearing a Regatta hat."

VISITORS NOTICE "After all, there's only three weeks left and there can be no better publicity than having Kelowna people wear the hat. Visitors notice it. It reminds them to stay longer and enjoy our Regatta or come back for it," he said.

Len Leathley, chairman of the Regatta committee, said a Regatta hat even turned up in California last winter.

"We pulled into a garage, the attendant walked out, and he had the Kelowna Regatta hat on," Mr. Leathley said.

"Now with the added incentive of free night show tickets, we hope to see everybody wearing their cap and helping to promote the Regatta," he said.

is not involved," he told Opposition Leader Diefenbaker in response to questions about possible forms of Canadian assistance to the federation.

Mr. Diefenbaker asked for comment on a Canadian Press story that said Mr. Pearson strongly supports the idea of Commonwealth assistance for a member country.

The prime minister said that all Commonwealth members "affirmed their sympathy and support" to Malaysia during the recent prime ministers' conference in London. But he said it would be premature for him to indicate what form of assistance Canada might give to the federation to help it fend off the threat of aggression from Indonesia.

Jimmie Watched Squirt Drama

FORT QUAPPELLE, Sask. (CP)—John Lennon, accompanied by his descendent pet skunk Jimmie, was driving along a country road when he pulled his car into a ditch.

He got out to survey the damage, forgetting to close the door.

Looking back he thought he saw his pet making a bid for freedom.

He called sharply. The skunk turned for a second and darted into the bushes.

In hot pursuit, Mr. Lennon overtook his quarry and said something like "getcha, ya little squirt" as he grabbed the animal by the tail.

Squirt was as appropriate a name as any for this particular skunk.

Jimmie watched the odd-packed drama from the clearer atmosphere of the car.

Two Weeks Of Haggle Ends On Liberals Student Loan Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons moved to the final stage—third reading—of the student loan bill today after haggling over it for the better part of two weeks.

Sweltering, weary MPs sat more than one hour overtime until 11:38 p.m. EDT Thursday and completed detailed study of the 18-clause measure.

A small band of Conservative and Creditiste MPs perched up and down all day with a stream of objections, amendments and questions.

Finance Minister Gordon warned that the loan machinery may not be set up in time for the coming academic year if there are further "holdups" in Parliament.

The bill must go through the Senate and receive royal assent before administrative steps can be taken to guarantee bank or credit union loans of up to $1,000 annually to needy university students. Mr. Gordon said it will take about one month to get the new program moving after it becomes law.

THURSDAY'S DEBATE alternated between sharp exchanges across the floor and repetitious arguments about legal and constitutional fine points.

MPs spent three sittings on the loan legislation last week and four this week. They have sat 11 days without a recess since the session opened Feb. 19.

The House approved one amendment to the bill Thursday, but voted down two others.

At the suggestion of Erik Nielsen (PC-Yukon), the government moved an amendment giving the commissioners and elected members of the Yukon and Northwest Territories Councils jurisdiction over the administration of the scheme in the North.

Mr. Nielsen had objected that the original bill placed this power in the hands of the northern affairs minister.

Pressure on Makarios After Cyprus Charges

U Thant, Secretary-General of the United Nations, asked Archbishop Makarios Thursday to take urgent action to end interference by Greek-Cypriot persons in the free movement of UN forces on embattled Cyprus.

At the same time, External Affairs Minister Paul Martin was telling the Canadian House of Commons that Makarios' regime had notified the UN that his government would have to take its own steps to protect the island in the absence of assurance there will be no invasion.

Also in the Canadian Commons, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker accused Makarios of contemptuous and cavalier disregard of the United Nations.

French Interior Minister Roger Frey Thursday declared the women's topless swimsuit "a public outrage." He told police throughout France to warn prospective wearers of the new style that they risk fines and arrest.

Mayor Prestes Maia of Sao Paulo, Brazil, explained on television Thursday why his staff is ignoring a request by a woman for permission to wear a topless bikini at municipal swimming pools. "We discovered the applicant has already reached the respectable age of 31, so the matter ceases to be of public interest," he said.

David John Moore, 24, of Prince George, was killed Thursday when struck by a car whose driver failed to stop. The 10-ft mother, Mrs. John Moore, found her son lying on the road where he had been playing with friends. RCMP began a door-to-door canvass for witnesses to the mishap in an effort to get a description of the car involved.

Nick William Sedock, 24, of McBride, was killed Thursday when an empty diesel fuel tank he was working on exploded in his face. He was working for the Ben Guter Construction Company on a highway project.

Both suits questioned the constitutionality of the public accommodations sections of the law.

De Gaulle's Speech Received Coldly In U.S., West Germany

PARIS (AP)—President de Gaulle's call for an international conference to bring peace to Indochina and his new challenge to U.S. leadership of the West drew cold rebuffs today from Washington and West Germany.

U.S. officials brushed aside as wholly unacceptable de Gaulle's proposal for a new 14-nation conference — with the United States, Russia, Red China and France as the principals — to settle the issues of South and North Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

Officials in Washington rejected de Gaulle's contention that a military solution in South Viet Nam is impossible. They said the United States cannot seriously consider another Indochina conference until a new military balance is created in South Viet Nam.

The French leader's sharp rebuff to Washington of its postwar dominance of the Western world had ended hardened the impression among U.S. diplomats that the rift between de Gaulle and the United States is beyond healing.

In Bonn, de Gaulle's reassertion of his design for an independent Europe based on French-West German political coordination also drew rejections.

West German officials said "subordination" did not describe relations between Europe and the United States in the Atlantic Alliance.

U.S. officials were irritated by de Gaulle's likening of Western Europe's growing independence to the weakening of Soviet control over the Communist bloc.

They said that while the Soviet Union followed a deliberate policy of central control of the Communist world, U.S. policy since the Second World War was dedicated to building up Western Europe to a position of partnership in the Atlantic community.

De Gaulle also complained that the French-West German Treaty of Cooperation he and Adenauer signed is not working because, he said, "West Germany does not yet believe that European policy, the policy of Europe, must be European and independent."

The London Times says these words would be used by Adenauer and other critics of Chancellor Erhard's foreign policy "as evidence that Erhard has destroyed the greatest achievement of his predecessor."

"The will say," he Times added, "that he has thrown away Franco-German understanding in exchange for out-of-date subservience to America and the mirage of a Europeanized Britain. This accusation, even if obviously overdrawn, is bound to have some effect."

The Frankfurt Allgemeine Zeitung says it was not true that West Germany does not believe European policies must be "European and independent."

"Europe must first grow together and become unified before it tries to develop such a policy," the independent paper says.

BONN (Reuters)—The West German government today rejected French President de Gaulle's criticism of its foreign policy and declared "German policy is dependent neither on the United States nor on France."

A government statement said with reference to the Franco-German Friendship Treaty a "Soviet menace persists. But the reasons for our subordination to America are being eliminated one after the other."

Members of parliament and senators staged a demonstration in the House of Representatives and smashed portraits of British former Speakers and clerks.

The demonstration, and the call for expulsion, came after the high commissioner refused to receive a party of 20 Negroes, some parliamentarians, who wanted to protest an assault on Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta by a pair of Britons in London last week.

The high commissioner sent a message saying he was willing to receive a delegation of three but would not see 20, especially as they were trespassing in his office and thus infringing diplomatic immunity.

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—A federal ice authority said Thursday conditions are bad in the northern waterways leading to this wheat stocked seaport in the middle of Canada.

Ice is heavy around Cape Chidley at the mouth of Hudson Strait, about 1,000 miles northwest of here. The north side of the strait is open, but Nottingham Passage from the strait into Hudson Bay is also choked by ice, and ice covers Hudson Bay except for the western shore.

Capt. E. L. Kelso, the transport department's ice operations officer during the summer and fall shipping season at this port, 600 miles north of Winnipeg, provided the ice information as compiled by two department of transport aerial reconnaissance planes.

Last year a record 22,864,000 bushels of wheat were shipped during a season that started July 23 and ended Oct. 20.

While there was no estimate Thursday of when the first ship will arrive this year, the Liverpool grain carrier Warkworth was expected today at Resolution Island, which faces Cape Chidley across the 50-mile mouth of Hudson Strait, directly off the northern tip of Labrador.

The Warkworth was one of three ships to arrive here July 23 last year and in 1962 opened the season by arriving July 26.

Segregationist Plans To Appeal

Kelowna's Busy Streets Should Be Laned

Other than those directly affected, we imagine few will disagree with the decision of city council to ban parking on Harvey Avenue and make it a four-lane street.

It has been obvious for some time that something of this nature had to be done. The decision is simply part of the city's growing pains and should be considered as such. The penalty of getting larger is that the old free-wheeling days must go. There was a time when it was common practice to park on the left side of the street and no one said them nay. Those days have gone and now we are entering another phase which will inevitably see more restrictions and more regulations which must be strictly observed.

While physically the city has grown, mentally we still live back in the old days. If we must park a couple of blocks from where we want to go, we think it is a terrible thing. Well, we'd better change our thinking because in another year or two if we ever are able to park within two blocks of our destination, we will be just plain lucky.

As a matter of fact, this newspaper wonders if, in making Harvey a four-lane street, city council has gone far enough. The time has come, we think, when serious consideration should be given to painting traffic lanes on many downtown streets. True, there is the centre lane now, and at intersections there is a short white line providing for two lanes of traffic at the intersection. This line, we feel, could well be extended the whole length of certain blocks.

The law provides for passing on the right where there is a white dividing line. With two lanes of traffic instead of the present one lane, Kelowna's busy streets could handle much more traffic than they do at the moment and do it more easily.

At the moment most motorists are prone to drive right down the centre of their half of the street. The result is that at every traffic light there is a long, single line of cars. If the half-street were divided into two lanes, cars would automatically be forced a foot or two either left or right and give passing room for cars following.

Immediately, of course, there will be objections that most of our streets are too narrow to allow both parking and two lanes of traffic. We cannot agree with this. Certainly it does not apply to streets where parallel parking is the rule.

The average Kelowna street is as wide and generally wider than those of many other cities, particularly towns in the east. Yet there almost invariably, there are two lanes of traffic plus parking.

Certainly Harvey Avenue lends itself to the two-lane system. Also Pandey, Water, Ellis, Queensway would fit nicely into the picture. Lawrence and Leach are other possibilities. These are all heavy traffic streets.

Bernard, of course, now carries two lanes plus angle parking on each side of the lamp standards. Not so many years ago when this was done, there were loud objections because some feared that cars in the lanes nearest the parked cars would crash cars trying to back out. The fears were groundless. These things are all a matter of education and experience.

It is quite true that double traffic lanes would force local drivers to pay a little more attention to their driving. They would have to learn to keep in their own lane and to get into their proper lane before making a turn. However, we might as well learn to do this at home, because we must practice it when we are in other cities.

As we see it, Bernard is the first step and Harvey is the second. Other downtown streets should be the third step in revamping Kelowna's traffic pattern. Some years elapsed between Bernard and Harvey. Consideration of the third step should not be delayed as long. In fact the time for consideration is now and the time for action is in the very near future.

Britain's Sporting Blood Trickle In Political Arena

LONDON (CP)—As bets for the "biggest election" in the world, Britain's sporting blood is beginning to trickle into the political domain.

With the general election set for the first of a party date is Oct. 15—the urge for a political flutter is being substantiated in all sorts of subtle ways.

Apart from simple bets on the two big parties, Conservatives and Labour, it is possible to place your money on either party at varying odds depending on the state of majority you think they may obtain.

This is a recent list from one of Britain's biggest betting houses, based on the bets of thousands of clients, offered 16 to 1 against Labour winning by a majority of one to 10 in the General Election.

It offers even shorter odds against the chances of Labour majorities ranging from 11 to 10 seats. You can get 10 to 1 against a Labour majority of 11 to 20 seats, 10 to 1 against an 11-30 edge, 50 to 1 against 31-40 and the same price for more than 100.

When it comes to a Conservative victory, the odds are 7 to 1 against a Tory majority of 10 to 11 seats, rising to 8 to 1 for 21-30 and 16 to 1 in the 31-40 class. The prices get really juicy for a majority of 71-80, reaching the 100 to 1 mark, and you can get 500 to 1 if the Conservatives win by anything over 91 seats.

LIBERALS ARE LONGSHOTS

Of course, the real longest betters are the Liberal party, who here don't need to worry about majorities. In the event of a victory by Jo Grimond's Liberal party, you would win $500 to 1, even if they just scraped home.

The simple odds against a Labour triumph are 2 to 1 and against the Conservatives 5 to 2.

Organized betting on British politics is a comparatively recent development. In a country credited with an annual turnover of more than $1,000,000,000 on horse racing betting alone, the emphasis is still on horses and dogs.

But there was lively betting last fall when the Conservative party engaged in some heavy soul-searching as a prelude to choosing a successor to Prime Minister Macmillan. Several daily lists of odds on the contenders, including Quintin Hogg, R. A. Butler and Reginald Maudling.

The winner, of course, turned out to be Sir Alec Douglas-Home, then the Earl of Home. He was a "dark horse," quoted in some lists at 20 to 1.

Baron Works Cutting Meat

AUCKLAND (CP)—The third Baron Vestey, heir to an immense British meat, cold storage and shipping empire, can be found these days on the night shift at a meat works in New Zealand, cutting up meat for export.

Already he has worked on the gut floor, the belly floor and in various other departments. He has done the late night shift and the early morning shift with Maori work hands.

His hands bear evidence of cuts and scars suffered in learning the art of boning and cutting. He admits that he almost sliced off the thumb of one of his instructors in learning the job.

At the age of 23, Lord Vestey has already served a three-year term as an officer of the 1st Battalion, Scots Guards. Now he is following the family tradition of learning his business the practical way.

When Lord Vestey takes over from a trust as joint head of the Vestey organization at the age of 30, he will control an empire which includes some 300 companies with operations in many parts of the world. He will take charge jointly with a cousin.

Meanwhile the ex-guardian is spending a year in various meat works of the organization in New Zealand. Later he will gain further practical experience in Australia, Argentina and the United States.

"It is a tradition in my family," he says. "My father went through the same routine when he was young."

OTTAWA REPORT

Pay Attention! Urges Martin

By PATRICK NICHOLSON
Daily Courier Ottawa Bureau

Patrick Nicholson's guest columnist today is Hon. Paul Martin, Secretary of State for External Affairs, and Liberal M.P. for Essex East.

It is a particular pleasure for me to contribute to Patrick Nicholson's column because, although I am accustomed to criticism on the editorial pages—indeed I welcome it, or most of it—I seldom have an editorial opportunity to talk back. Mr. Nicholson, I should add, has been fair in his comments of my work.

Since I became secretary of state for external affairs, I have been distressed at the many times I have heard people say something like this: "International affairs have become so complex and so confusing today that they are beyond me, there is nothing I can do about nuclear weapons or disarmament or foreign aid or the U.N. so I just won't pay any attention to all that business." How many times have you heard this type of thinking expressed?

This is a tragic philosophy. It is a view which leads to a negative cynicism and a lack of involvement in our society which projected on a national scale could be disastrous for our way of life.

The fact is that today more than at any time in history international affairs have been the direct concern of individuals everywhere in the world. No longer can relationships between nations be left to a small coterie of experts in government. Today science and technology have developed at such an international pace.

It is a paradox of our time that this negative attitude toward international involvement should exist at the very period in history when aid of humanity is involved in international affairs. What can we do to eradicate this erroneous view? Well, there are a number of things.

First and foremost, each individual needs to re-examine his standards. His conduct, his daily life, his contribution to the future of mankind that ultimately matters. I am not suggesting that the individual should think in abstract, intellectual or even in international terms. I am suggesting that each of us should think profoundly in terms of the future of our children and of their relationships with their fellow men.

of all nationalities, creeds and colors.

To begin this process it is not necessary to look beyond the boundaries of Canada or even beyond the confines of our own communities. For unless we as individuals can conduct ourselves and our affairs according to the very highest standards, we can hardly hope to influence others internationally.

There are more visitors from other nations in Canada than ever before and many of them are students to whom we should extend our warmest hospitality. They have much to offer us, perhaps more than we can offer them. By meeting and talking to them we have a wonderful opportunity to learn in personal terms about other parts of the world and the problems and aspirations of other people. There are many other opportunities: public affairs programmes, good books, discussion groups and outlets for individual opinions on international affairs. I can assure you these opinions and attitudes do influence international affairs and they are often a decisive factor in Canadian foreign policy.

For example, the determination of the Canadian people to do their utmost to preserve peace by contributing to United Nations peace-keeping activities prompted the Government to respond with a boldness in successive crises in Indochina, the Middle East, the Congo and most recently in Cyprus.

We are living in an interdependent and swiftly contracting world. It is a world in which the challenge to each one of us is to become truly international and to learn not only to be good Canadians but to be good citizens of the world. Indeed, we have reached the stage in history when these two are inseparable.

Canada is among the foremost of the international nations today. But before we can become truly international in our thinking we must have a much greater body of opinion and understanding in our country about the kind of world we are living in today and the kind of problems and opportunities which will confront us tomorrow.

The next time you hear someone say that there is nothing he can do about international affairs, I hope you will remind him that there is nothing his country can do without his and other citizens' participation and that through that participation he can be a positive factor.

Who Is Unemployed?

Despite the headline-catching statements about high unemployment, the evils of automation and the prevalence of poverty, in the month of May there were 6,608,000 Canadians at work—an increase in employment of 296,000 from one year earlier. The figures are the official government estimates, prepared jointly by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the federal Department of Labour.

Anyone who wishes, of course, may still find support in the official statistics for the argument that unemployment remains very high. In the month of May it amounted to 4.2 per cent of the labor force. But a point that the professional pessimists will choose to ignore—and this is not to argue that unemployment is not a grievous problem to the person needing work and seeking work—is that about 60 per cent of those now out of work will have jobs in less than four months even if there is no improvement in business activity.

Unemployment in May was down by 53,000 from a year earlier to a total of 293,000 persons, of whom 59,000 were women and 234,000 were men. But most of the unemployed, 177,000 out of 293,000, had been jobless for 12 weeks or less; only 116,000 had been unemployed for more than 12 weeks. Thus, while unemployment amounted to 4.2 per cent of the labor force, only 1.7 per cent of the labor force were suffering the troubles of long-term unemployment.

The so-called "army of unemployed" is not a standing army but a static one. About two-thirds of it is turning over several times a year, and this constant change is more characteristic of a dynamic economy than a stagnant one. Also to be considered is the point that teenagers, unmarried men and housewives—most of whom are not in the position of having to work to support a family—make up between one-quarter and one-third of the jobless total.

For several years now governments have been claiming that a continuing unemployment crisis justifies deficit spending, an increased money supply, expansion of transfer payments to persons and other policies—most of them inflationary—as a means of spurring the economy to provide "full employment." Thus far, however, there has been little or no honest effort to discover the exact nature and economic significance of unemployment. Politically, ever-bigger state spending may be the easiest way to appear to be dealing with the situation. In fact, however, it could be the wrong remedy for the wrong problem. — The Clip-Sheet

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Ketchup And Pickles Should Be Tapered Off

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My 5-year-old daughter likes ketchup and pickles and wants some with all my dishes, which means all my days. Is this harmful in any way?—MRS. C.L.

It could be, in time. At this age the youngster is establishing taste patterns that will last all her life, just as some children are brought up eating too much salt or too much sugar. There's no harm, certainly, in occasional ketchup or pickles, but I would institute a gradual campaign—and no fussing or lecturing—to taper off on these relishes. Just a simple, "Oh, we don't eat ketchup on steak, honey," or "We don't happen to have any pickles in the house today."

In the latter case, of course, be sure that you DON'T have any pickles in the house. Kids aren't stupid! Lie to them, and they soon find it out, and giving them reason not to trust you is much worse than pickleging.

I'm not saying that pickles and ketchup are harmful in moderation. But eating highly-salted foods in excess can irritate the stomach and in time lead to gastritis.

Besides all this, it's still not a bad idea to teach children to eat what is served at the table and not demand things that aren't. What's this little girl going to do, later on in life, when she has dinner at someone else's house and has to struggle along without either ketchup or pickles?

Dear Dr. Molner: Is emphysema contagious? Could a person get it from someone who is very sick with it and coughed all over the place without covering the mouth, or by using the same dishes?—M.M.

No, you don't get emphysema that way. However, germs of various types not related to emphysema, can be spread by coughing, so everyone should cover the mouth with a handkerchief, tissue, or even just a hand, when coughing.

Since emphysema is increasing, and evidently at an alarming rate, people ought to know more about what causes it, how it can be prevented, and what to do if it does start. All of these are included in my booklet, "How to Control Emphysema." (To receive a copy, send 15c in coin, and an unstamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper.)

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there an allergy-free state? My son, 11, is fine all winter, but from spring through fall he is allergic to willow trees, grass, molds, ragweed and other plants.

Florida advertises being an allergy-free state.—H.N.S.

There is no allergy-free state, because no matter what material you have in mind, someone or later somebody comes along and is allergic to it.

Some areas are better than others, for certain people. With the accumulation of allergies possessed by your boy, the only way to find out about Florida (or any other state) would be to try living there for a time. You should be forewarned that you might merely exchange one set of allergies for another. But then again, you might find he would be much more comfortable.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a woman become pregnant while she is having her period? Second, will a douche prevent pregnancy?—MRS. A.M.

First question: No. Second: A douche definitely is not a perfect means of preventing pregnancy.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any scientific knowledge as to whether house plants (African violets, rubber plants, philodendrons, etc.) make arthritis any worse? We certainly enjoy the plants and would hate to dispose of them, but we have been told that tropical varieties make arthritis worse. It sounds silly to me.—MRS. D.F.

It sounds silly to me, too, and I know of no evidence to support this idea. So keep and enjoy your plants.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain a fat tumor. What makes it different from others? Can it become malignant? A friend of mine has had one for 18 years.—P.L.

A "tumor" means an overgrowth of cells—more grow at a certain place than are supposed to. This is possible in almost any part of the body, although some places are less likely to have tumors than others.

Thus a fatty tumor is one that grows in the fat cells. There can also be skin tumors, bone tumors, tumors in muscle areas. The growth (or tumor) will be of whatever type of tissue it is in.

When a tumor is malignant, that is cancerous, it keeps on growing and finally begins to spread to other tissues. An ordinary, or benign, tumor does not do this.

Fatty tumors (or lipomas) do NOT tend to become malignant. They are usually left alone unless they are unsightly, or large enough or so located as to be painful or a nuisance.

Dear Dr. Molner: What does a bilateral vasectomy do to a male other than render him sterile?—H.E.R.

Nothing.

NOTE: TO MRS. E.G.: No, antibiotics do NOT "cause hardening of the arteries." (And polyps sometimes do have an annoying way of recurring. Not always, but fairly often.)

Indian Pictograph Excite Historians

Indian Rock Paintings, or pictographs, have recently been exciting many members of the Okanagan Historical Society.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Upton, of Okanagan Mission, have for the past two years, been searching for the paintings and are in process of recording them. Monty DeMara has assisted with colored pictures of the findings. "In my early childhood I heard many tales of these Indian drawings," said Mrs. Upton. "that it is only in the past three years we have done any exploring to find them."

"They are all most interesting, possibly because no one knows what they mean. The ones we have found in the Okanagan are strikingly similar to others recorded in France, Sweden, Spain, South Africa, and in many places in both North and South America."

LOCATIONS

Pictographs have been found near Wilson's Landing, 12 miles north of Kelowna. Nahm, just north of there, at Whiteman Creek, north of Nahm, on the east and west sides of Vancouver

Lake, south of Shale Lake: at McKelvey Landing, south of Okanagan Centre, south of Oshesley Point, north of Naramata on Paradise Beach and the Big Canyon on the east side of Shale Lake.

"All the ones we have found so far are in rattlesnake country," said Mrs. Upton, and some of them are accessible only by lake.

"My husband Ted and I have done much of the work alone. I made sketches and measurements and he takes colored slides of the paintings. Then we work out the finished drawing when we get home from the sketches and the slides."

SEEK VARIES

Mrs. Upton said there was no average size. Some of the pictures are very small and some are 18 inches or more in height. Sometimes there will be a dozen individual pictures in one place.

The photographs are always found on rock faces, sheltered by a rock overhang, or on boulders.

Many of those found are on firm faces, but others are on rocks that have weathered or slipped away over the years. "Especially at Dunrobin, called Commando Bay during the second world war, just north of Naramata, where we found the only complete hunting scene ever recorded pictorially, people have been flaking the rock face off, presumably to take home souvenirs."

"We are most anxious to record these evidences of early Indian work before they are all destroyed," said Mrs. Upton.

Cameras And Hope To Soar
If Ranger 7 Makes Moon

PARADISE, Calif. (AP)—Ranger 7 will carry more than cameras when it is launched at the moon next week. On it will be the hopes and perhaps the future of the man who made it.

After Ranger 6 hit the moon last February but failed for the fourth straight time to return close-up pictures of the lunar surface, scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory birthplace of the probes under severe criticism from the parent U.S. space agency and in Congress.

JPL operations since then have been overhauled and Ranger 7 had been subjected to minutely detailed tests.

Result: Laboratory Boss Wiliam Pickering gives it a 50-50 chance, compared with the one-in-four chance given Ranger 6.

"We are more confident about Ranger 7—we give it one chance in two—because we have one more shot behind us and some changes have been made to improve the reliability of the craft," Pickering said in an interview.

"I believe the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is most convinced that this is a complex and difficult job, but that we will be able to get pictures of the moon from at least one of the next three shots."

Whether Ranger 7 succeeds or not, Pickering said, there will be no more launches this year due to other commitments at the Atlantic range.

"But we fully expect to fly two more Rangers early next year," he said. "Ranger 8 is already assembled and work has begun on Ranger 9."

ROMANTIC HUSBY DIVORCED AT 80

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Magdalena Benosoter was granted a divorce from her 80-year-old husband Wednesday after she testified he was an "old man" and a "girl" to her senior citizens club.

Mrs. Benosoter, 72, said her husband of nine years, Virgil, not only gallivanted but boasted of his conquests afterward.

Benosoter did not contest the divorce, which was granted by Superior Court Judge S. C. Masterson.

Doctor Sentenced In Abortion Death

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Harvey N. Lothman has been sentenced Wednesday to a prison term of two to eight years for the 1962 abortion death and dismemberment of a Westchester girl. The dismembered body of Barbara Infante, 19, was found in a sewer near Lothman's office in Queens, N.Y.

THE BIDDING:

Pass Pass 2♠ Pass
2♠ Pass 3♠ Pass
3♠ Pass 4♠ Pass
4♠ Pass 5♠ Pass
5♠ Pass 6NT Pass

Opening lead — queen of spades.

The United States team, having defeated Canada in the semi-finals, and the Italian team, having defeated Great Britain, met in the final round of the Second World Bridge Olympiad. Italy won by 155 international match points to 112.

The U.S. team got off to a good start. After 13 boards they were leading Italy 42 to 11 and it began to look as though the famed Italian Blue Team might lose its strangeness to the world championship.

But seven boards later the Italians had taken the lead 56 to 42. The Americans fought back and were ahead again after 20 boards, 62 to 52, but then the Italian team scored steadily and eventually won by 66 IMPs.

The Italians were especially effective in the last 20 deals. Playing with machine-like precision, they were utterly invincible. No team in the world could have beaten them in this third of the match. They not only made no errors, but were uncannily accurate whenever a close decision had to be made.

Italy gained 13 IMPs on the accompanying hand. The American North-South pair, Jordan and Robinson, had reached six hearts and made seven on the bidding shown.

When Belladonna and Avarelli had the North-South cards, they reached a sound grand slam on the following bidding:

North East South West
Pass Pass 2NT Pass
2NT Pass 3♥ Pass
3♥ Pass 4♥ Pass
4♥ Pass 5♥ Pass
5♥ Pass 6NT Pass
6NT

Some of the bids were strictly conventional, being based on the Roman Club system—which features many highly specialized gadgets to deal with potential slam hands. The grand slam was easily made by establishing an extra club trick in dummy and Italy gained 750 points on the deal.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

You may find yourself up against some confusing situations now. A happy event or some pleasant personal contacts could inspire optimism which, on the other hand, could be deflated by some disappointment in the carrying out of plans. Take all in stride, however. Matters should be righted within 24 hours.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that, for the next year, it would be wise to temper monetary ambitions with thriftiness. Even though some good financial breaks show in your chart—notably in September and October—you would not be justified in undertaking any expansion along these lines for at least 12 months. Above all, don't take risks in November or December and if you happen to be in any speculative venture at the present time, be sure you are out of it by November 1st. Job matters, though generally routine in the year's picture, should receive some sort of boost in late November, late December or next March, but you'll have to put forth best efforts to attain them. This looks like one can't get much handed to him on the proverbial silver platter.

Personal interests will be livelier than business pursuits, however. Social and traveling activities will be highly stimulating between now and early September; also in December and next May, and there will be fine aspects governing romance throughout August and September, in late October, next May and June. If careful to avoid friction in close circles during the early part of November, domestic concerns should be unusually harmonious.

A child born on this day will be a born leader and will probably be a greater success in the professional field than in the business world.

EVER HAPPEN TO YOU?

Boer "War" Still Goes On On Subject Of Apartheid

LONDON (CP)—Sometimes it seems as though the Boer War never really came to an end. As Britain is ever-growing numbers debate the South African problem in club rooms and discussion groups, it is becoming, as one speaker on race relations said recently, "a subject on which one cannot be neutral." And at the root of it all for the last 74 years is the fact that a deep-seated hatred of one race between the British and Boers.

Like those present-day Confed-erates in the U.S. South who have yet to purge themselves of Civil War sentiments towards the Yankees, the Dutch-South African have long memories. Though many fought with the Allies in the Second World War, a sizable number took the pro-Nazi stand of Dr. Hendrik Verwoerd, then a government minister, now the Nationalist premier. The British flag was dragged through the streets of Pretoria when war was declared on Hitler's Germany.

Africans school textbooks perpetuate hostility towards British behavior in the war of 1899-1902. Museums show photographs of British "concentration camps" and ground glass as legions led to their prisoners.

BRITONS PERPLEXED

Britons in their turn have never really understood this tough, taciturn, hospitable yet narrowly fundamentalist people who have an evangelical faith in their nationhood and the superiority of the white man.

Whatever course of action on South Africa is discussed—and suddenly, it seems, sanctions have had the air of radical irreconcilability they once had and are being debated seriously—the underlying question today can answer is "What, if any, thing could make the Africans understand give up the Boer's racialist world?"

Many fear that far from leading to economic pressure, the British end of necessary.

The obvious sign is there to be read. Military parades on Republic Day, May 31, drummed a menacing counterpoint to the comparatively calm sentences handed out in the Pretoria sabotage trial—sentences that led some British commentators to hope South Africa was at last listening to world opinion.

The 10-day detention law, ruthlessly enforced by the often uneducated young police constables, is admitted by Justice Minister B.J. Vorster to be a useful way of getting industrial firms.

FIGHT TO DEATH

South Africa's defence budget was increased this year to nearly $400,000,000. Air bases are being built across the country. Housewives can buy tear gas in handy spray cans like insecticide.

In May, 1963, Transport Minister Bas Smuts told African schoolchildren they must be prepared to die if necessary for their country, should the Boer states north of the Zambezi ever try to "liberate" South Africa by force.

The Africans have been caused a people with their backs to the wall who dare not turn to see the writing on it.

History has prepared them to lead a last-ditch stand to be on the defensive. For 20 years after the Dutch explorer Jan van Riebeeck landed in 1652 at what now is Cape Town, the Africans grew accustomed to looking a position in "leer"—a state of covered wagons—against the Boers who often had no better claim to the land than the white settlers.

Through the long-drawn-out "Kaffir wars" of the 19th century the Boers—the world's most isolated—fought to retain their land and their identity as a nation, in which German and Huguenot mingled with the Dutch strain.

FUGHT BRITAIN

They tracked south to found the northeastern republics of Transvaal and the Orange Free State. Then, fearful of British designs upon their independence, they went to war against the most powerful nation on earth. They fought heavily and bravely, the war expected to last three months, dragged out for 14 years. The Boer horsemen, armed with rifle, Bible and "bitter"—a dried stripe of meat—ran rings around the British ranks of Queen Victoria's proud army, being eventually through sheer numbers and exhaustion.

Later came the Broederbond, a vaguely sinister, semi-secret Africanist frontman, whose object was and still is—to get Afrikaans-speaking South Africans into the positions of power wielded by the British in government and the Jews in business.

Africanist nationalism, which achieved its dream of a Boer republic May 31, 1961, might have been accepted by the world had it not been based on the principle of white supremacy.

But the leaders of the Volk, the Afrikaans call itself, are convinced that under their rule South Africa is destined to be the last stronghold of Christian civilization in the Dark Continent. The rest of the world cannot see this in their view because it is "rich" and self-sufficient by appeasement of the Afro-Asians.

They regard multiracialism in much the same light as supporters of U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater view coexistence with Communists—it would work because the other side will be satisfied with nothing less than a full takeover.

PREDICTS BLOODSHED

In 1960, Dr. W. D. van der Stoep, a Boer, said that integration would lead to "bloody strife and ultimate bloodshed."

The only just and practical solution is the separate development of nations.

Nationalist intellectuals like Dr. T. E. W. Schumann argue that the Negro is biologically inferior to the white man.

DIETRICH SPARS WITH ZSA ZSA

CANNES, France (AP)—Mariette Dietrich and Zsa Zsa Gabor laughed verbally at the Cannes Casino Wednesday night because Miss Gabor's personal photographer took pictures of Miss Dietrich.

Miss Dietrich is singing at the Casino in the form of a show with nearly transparent top she wears for night club appearances. Her contract specifies no photographs during the show.

Beside Miss Gabor at Wednesday night's show was her photographer, his camera at the action position. Miss Dietrich made signs of protest and interrupted her act to ask him to stop his "extremely unbecoming" actions.

At the end of the show she asked the photographer for the film.

Miss Gabor reacted angrily but finally gave in.

"All right, he'll give you the film," she said. "What do you think he could do with it? He couldn't sell it for a penny."

Monte Carlo Gang Nets $20,000

MONTE CARLO (AP)—Masked bandits held up a few days in Monte Carlo Thursday, wounded two witnesses who tried to stop their getaway and kidnapped a policeman as they fled. Police estimates placed the haul at several hundred thousand francs ($100,000 francs equals $20,000).

Labor Minister To Intervene In B.C. Strike When Time Ripe

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister MacEachen said in the Commons today he will intervene in a strike involving two west coast ships when he feels the time is ripe.

Mr. MacEachen was promptly accused by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker of time-wasting in dealing with the strike and its effect on isolated communities. The labor minister denied the charge.

Level 800 of the Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers (BRTGW) offered a telegram to the labor minister to man a small vessel, the Northern Prince, to carry emergency medical supplies to any community needing them, if the Northern Transportation Company and the B.C. Federation of Labor will agree.

Mr. MacEachen said he intends to send the telegram to the company, and that he and his department have been following the strike situation closely to determine what other steps they might take which would not be construed as interfering on one side of the issue of the other.

The labor minister said that while there is inconvenience as a result of the strike, it is by no means a hardship.

ASKS ABOUT COMPLAINTS

Mr. Diefenbaker asked whether the minister thought complaints by Kitimat, Prince Rupert, and two mining communities served by the ships were exaggerated.

"No," Mr. MacEachen said. "Any strike situation is bound to produce inconvenience but sometimes there are unjustified local reactions."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the offer to man an emergency ship had been made by the union 36 hours ago. The minister was being "tactless" about sending it to the company.

"That allegation is not correct," Mr. MacEachen said.

"What allegation is not right?" Mr. Diefenbaker demanded.

The minister has had the telegram for 36 hours and is just waiting around and playing about with the problem."

Mr. MacEachen said that was "absolutely false."

"Influence is not a word," he said, saying the allegation is false.

Mr. Diefenbaker said "He has had this telegram for 36 hours."

"That is not correct," Mr. MacEachen said.

"What was it then?" 35 hours, Mr. Diefenbaker demanded.

Mr. MacEachen did not reply.

Output In Soviet Actually "Less"

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times reports that an increase in industrial production claimed by the Soviet Union actually represented a "serious decline" in the growth rates reported in recent years.

Investia, the Soviet government newspaper, reported Wednesday that Soviet industrial production increased 1.5 per cent in the first half of 1964. But Harry Schwartz, The Times' expert on Soviet affairs, by the Soviet economy for any comparable period in almost two decades.

"The 1.5 per cent output increase reported," Schwartz wrote, "is well under the 3.5 to 10 per cent cited annually at the same time in recent years."

Schwartz said two factors appear to be playing major roles in the slowdown: The decline in food production and difficulties in getting Premier Khrushchev's big chemical production program under way.

Soviet And Czechs Invite Canadians

OTTAWA (CP)—Russia and Czechoslovakia have invited the Canadian Parliament to send a 14-member group on a three-week visit to the two countries and the invitation has been tentatively accepted. It was received by Senate Speaker Maurice Bourget and Commons Speaker Alan Macnaughton who are making arrangements.

SUMMER THOUGHTS FOR HAPPY WINTER

This dramatic family room is an excellent example of the use of contrasts in decorating. The use of brilliant reds and blacks in the chairs, pictures and floor covering are highlighted against the lighter wall tones. Adding emphasis to this design are two black shaded blue light pull-down lighting fixtures. The unit over the table is controlled by a dimmer to offer a variety of lighting moods. Wall ornamentation is emphasized by the use of recessed directional beam lighting units mounted in the ceiling.

Peace Almost Restored In Riot Torn New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Peace has returned to both riot-torn New York City, but peering white youths hurled missiles at Negro and white demonstrators outside police headquarters late Thursday night. Police Inspector Henry Yack, 59, was hit in the right eye by a stone. He was held in a hospital overnight. An egg narrowly missed Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy. He was cursed by the whites as they threw eggs at him. None of the pickets—who were protesting alleged police brutality—was hit. The anti-picket crowd swelled to 1,500 as the demonstrations progressed. But only a fraction of them—mostly teenagers—were from the Italian-American neighborhood around headquarters.

In the same period last year, the figures were: Canada 257,635; United States 2,468,756; other markets 397,614. Shipments to the United States in the first three months of 1963 were reduced by strikes against newspapers in New York and Cleveland.

AIDS TO AILING HOMES

MESH NOT BLACK
QUESTION: Our black mesh fireplace screen no longer looks black although it is dusted regularly. What can we put on to restore its blackness?
ANSWER: Vacuum off all dust, then apply a thin coat of oil to improve the appearance. A few minutes after application, wipe off all excess oil. Otherwise it will catch dust. Furniture polish can be used in place of the oil; if it is well rubbed, all stickiness will be removed.

SQUEAKY KITCHEN FLOOR
QUESTION: We have linoleum on our kitchen floor. But the wood floor under the linoleum squeaks badly. How can we get rid of the squeaks?
ANSWER: I assume the underside of the kitchen floor can be reached from the basement, or a crawl space. The squeaking may be due to the boards not resting solidly on the beams. Have someone walk across the squeaky places; drive narrow wedges at these points between the subflooring and beams to close the gap.

YELLOWED DINETTE SET
QUESTION: The light gray plastic dinette set we use in our kitchen has become quite yellowed after several years of use. How can I clean this plastic upholstery?
ANSWER: The yellowing may be due to a build-up of wax on the surface or an accumulation of grease from cooking vapors. To clean, try using a foam-type upholstery cleaner (available in aerosol form at housewares and hardware dealers) for use on plastic upholstery. Or scrub with a strong detergent solution and a medium stiff brush, followed by rinsing with clear water and wiping dry.

If the yellowing is due to sulfur fumes (such as from the chimney from a nearby factory), wipe with a six per cent solution of hydrogen peroxide, allow to remain about 30 minutes on the plastic surface. Then rinse off with clear water and wipe dry. Repeat treatment if necessary.

WATER IN VALVES
QUESTION: Water seems to accumulate daily in the air-vent valves in several of our radiators. How can we correct this?
ANSWER: Tilted radiators frequently cause this condition. All radiators should stand perfectly level, or tilt slightly toward the drain, to assure free flow. Place small blocks of wood, one-quarter of an inch thick, under radiator legs at valve end. Water will also accumulate in a vent if the shut-off valve is kept partly open or tightly shut. The affected vent valve may be defective. Remove the valve from trouble - free radiator and try it on the radiator giving trouble. If the radiator then functions properly, a new valve is necessary.

HELPFUL HINTS ABOUT YOUR HOME

Warm, Humid Family Room Causes Condensation On Door

QUESTION: The sliding door between my heated family room and cold attached garage is solid core oak. During the winter it bows outwardly, towards the garage, making the door difficult to slide. The door has been finished with a sealer and final coat of an acrylic base, and I suspect that the warpage is caused by moisture absorption in the door, but am not sure. What can I do to correct this condition?

ANSWER: Your suspicion is correct: the warm, humid family room air is condensing on the cooler areas of the door, expanding the wood fibres, the moisture gaining entrance through an unfinished (unsealed) area in the door. Usually the top and bottom edges of doors are over-lapped, permitting moisture to enter here. Wait until the door has straightened, after the heating season, and then remove it for careful inspection and apply missing finish coatings.

PAINT ON PLASTIC TILE
QUESTION: Our bathroom walls are covered with plastic tile half-way up and the upper half is painted. We recently re-enameled the upper part and overlooked some paint splatters on the tile. How can we remove these without damaging the tile surface?

ANSWER: To remove paint a solution made of one part pure turpentine (the sure not to use a turpentine substitute which would injure the tile surface) and three parts rubbing alcohol. Rub the tile with a thick paste made of powdered chalk and water, followed by wiping with a dry, clean cloth.

BOOT ON WALLPAPER
QUESTION: We would like to put wallpaper on our living room walls. These are now painted. However, we have a problem with foot collecting on the wall surface above the radiators. We could wash this off the painted surface but the wallpaper won't be washable. Can you suggest a remedy?

ANSWER: A clear plastic coating, in aerosol form, for use on wallpaper, provides a protective, washable surface. Available at paint and wallpaper dealers and some hardware stores. Follow label directions carefully.

Dust and soot, etc., drawn up from between radiator fins as heat rises, are the usual causes over a radiator. Try vacuuming between radiator fins to remove all possible dust. Place a sheet of do-it-yourself aluminum against the wall behind the radiator, curving it slightly at the top toward the radiator. This helps considerably in keeping grime off the wall, as well as making the radiator more efficient in heating.

PETER'S PATTERN

with PETER MUNOZ

Everybody loves Saturday night... except perhaps Kelowna baseball fans. Most Saturday games here this year have seen poor weather conditions... either rain, a threat of rain or chilling winds. . . . Anyway we reach the end of the road in the home schedule this Saturday night. Let's face it, Vernon in their final home encounter and this is an important game for both clubs.

Each needs a win in light of the playoff picture. . . . Labe held a two-game lead over the Luckys in the struggle for fourth and last playoff spot. . . . A win for the northern crew would make Labe position quite desperate with only one game left at Penticton. Vernon meanwhile would have three to play and a sweep would carry them in. Merritt's Thursday night loss makes it a three-way struggle now.

To say Labe are in a slump is an understatement. . . . They haven't been hitting at all recently and their defence has been as porous as a sponge. . . . But all this could change Saturday night. The boys know what's at stake. . . . the Vernon team will be up for this one and this could be one of the better ball games of the season here. . . . Luckys have started moving as of late and they won't let up now.

It would be a solid vote of encouragement if something more than the usual 200 or so fans turned out for this final effort. . . . It might be a little cool so bring a sweater. . . . Game time is 8 p.m. and if the participants cooperate you should be out of the park by 10:30. . . . Skill time for other social activities.

We had a call the other day thanking our predecessor for a pillar on the Kelowna Rowing Club some weeks ago. . . . The voice on the other end of the line sounded somewhat apologetic for the response evoked by the column's piece.

"Before I was the only one interested in rowing," said the caller, Budgie Winter, "now we have about 20 participants. We practice every night from 8:30 to 9:30."

So rapidly has the club grown in its rebuilding that they now have a senior men's crew, two junior crews, two novice crews, a novice ladies' crew and two mixed crews. These are all hours. Besides, there is a junior and a ladies' double scull. . . . He said it has been about three decades since the club had girls or women rowing and now they would be able to compete against U.S. women in this year's Regatta.

Boating races at this year's regatta are slated for Saturday, August 13, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. with a break from 2 to 5 p.m. for powerboat racing. . . . For any other interested rowing enthusiasts the club's nightly practice is held at the east end of the Aquatic.

More Puck Stars Coming In August

Three more puck stars were added today to the growing line-up of talent coming to the mid-summer hockey game in Kelowna.

Bob Giordano, summer game committee chairman, said Larry Chisholm of the New York Rangers, Billy McNeill of Vancouver Canucks and Wayne North of Toledo Blades will play in the annual summer classic August 8.

He also announced coaches for the two opposing teams, starting Rangers' Jacques Plante and Toronto's Johnny Bower in either goal.

Nal Layton, general manager and coach of Portland Buckaroos and Max McNab who holds similar posts with Vancouver Canucks in the Western Hockey League will handle the clubs.

McNeill is a former Detroit Red Wing and North played with the Kelowna Packers in the low level defunct Okanagan Senior League. Wayne is a resident of Kelowna and had a good year at Toledo last season.

Negotiations are still underway with other pro hockey players to supplement the rosters. Giordano said tickets on sale at Coops Smoke and Gift Shoppe are moving well.

Canadian Riflers Relax After Matches

LONDON (CP)—Members of the Canadian cadet rifle team were relaxing at the seaside resort of Brighton today after a relatively poor showing at the Bisley cadet matches this week. The Canadians lost the Alexander Graham Bell Trophy to Britain for the second year running, despite magnificent shooting by Cadet Lieut. Robert Fraser of Halifax. Fraser scored 49 out of a possible 50 at 200 yards and 50 at 300 yards for a total of 99 points. Captain W.G. Bruce-Wait of Victoria scored 98 points. The Canadian team will visit Windsor Castle and London Airport Saturday before leaving for Paris by train in the evening.

PCL Features Slugfests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two slugfests and a pitchers' battle enlivened a rain-abbreviated Pacific Coast League schedule Thursday night. Tacoma's Giants made it three in a row over San Diego 2-1 by queelling a last-inning Padre rally. There were thirty base hits as Spokane outslugged Seattle 15-6. Bill Al Ferrera led the Indian attack with six runs batted in on his 15th homer, a double and two singles. Stan Wojcik and Ricardo Joseph belted four hits each as the Dallas Rangers thumped Salt Lake 14-5. The Rangers mounted a 20-hit attack off four Des pitchers. Two games were rained out: Indianapolis at Arkansas and Portland at Hawaii. Oklahoma City and Denver were not scheduled.

Rookie Bombs-In On AL Debut

BERTO Campaneris had a rocky childhood, but his American League debut went more smoothly than a Russian election.

Campaneris, a 21-year-old Cuban, made an emergency overnight trip to join Kansas City Athletics, who had lost shortstop Wayne Causey in a baseline accident.

Shortly after arriving Thursday, Campaneris clouted two homers and a single, driving in three runs, as the Athletics nipped Minnesota Twins 4-3 in 11 innings. The rookie also walked and stole a base while the Twins dropped their eighth consecutive game.

As a child in Cuba, Campaneris trained diligently to become a big league ball player. He even threw rocks with both hands to develop dexterity.

In his first major league time at bat Thursday, Campaneris slammed Jim Kaat's first pitch over the fence in left.

ONE OF SIX That made him only the sixth player in major league history to hit a home run on the first to him.

In the seventh inning he hit another Kaat pitch over the same fence and became only the second in modern history to hit two homers in his first game.

Bob Nieman did it with the old St. Louis Browns in 1931. One of the other five players to hit a first-inning homer was Hoyt Wilhelm, now of Chicago White Sox. The veteran pitcher got a key single Thursday in Chicago's 2-1 victory over Los Angeles Angels in another 11-inning contest.

Elsewhere in the AL, Washington Senators edged New York Yankees 2-1, Baltimore Orioles trounced Cleveland Indians 7-1 and Boston Red Sox trounced Detroit Tigers 4-3.

Campaneris' second homer, with a man on, tied the game 3-3 after Harrison Killebrew's 34th homer with two aboard gave the Twins a 3-1 lead in the sixth inning. Doc Edwards won it for the Athletics with a homer off Gerry Arrigo in the 11th.

BROKE STRING The White Sox broke Dean Chance's scoreless pitching string at 27 innings with a run in the first but had to wait 10 more innings for the triumph. A double by Felix Torres and Bobby Knoop's single tied the game in the Angels' eighth.

Then in the 11th, Mike Hershberger walked, went to second on Wilhelm's single and scored on Tom McCraw's single.

The Yankees held a 1-0 lead until the eighth when pinch-hitter Jim King lashed a bases-loaded single, driving in two runs.

The Orioles moved within five percentage points of the first-place Yankees as Robin Roberts pitched a five-hitter for his eighth victory against four defeats. Sam Bowens drove in four runs with a two-run single in the first inning and a two-run homer in the third while Dick Brown smashed solo homers in the sixth and in the eighth.

Boston edged Detroit on Felix Mantilla's sixth-inning home run. Bullpen ace Dick Hadzitz preserved Dave Morehead's sixth victory in 16 decisions.

TOUCH OF HOME FOR CYCLISTS

QUEBEC (CP)—Cyclists from 11 European countries and Tunisia were greeted in their own languages as they arrived in Quebec City Thursday to participate in Le Tour du St. Laurent, a 1,500-mile annual bicycle race.

Ginette Vachon, 21, daughter of the man who sponsors the race, welcomed cyclists in Russian, Polish, German, French, Yugoslavian, English, Dutch, Flemish, Italian and Arabic. She has studied languages at Quebec's Laval University and in Europe.

The race takes cyclists on a two-week circuit of the St. Lawrence and Saguenay River valleys. This year's 76 entrants leave the starting line at Matane, Que., in the Gaspé Peninsula, at noon Sunday. There are also six Canadian teams in the race.

Lelands Erupt Beat Merritt 8-3

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Kamloops Lelands came within one game of clinching the Okanagan Mainline senior baseball pennant with an 8-3 win over Merritt Luckies Thursday night.

It was the second loss this week for the Luckies to the league-leading Lelands. They were dropped 9-3 in a game here Tuesday.

Kamloops needs only one more win to be assured of the league championship when the finals start early next month.

Kamloops waited until the last minute before clinching the win as they played a see-saw battle with the Luckies until the 8th inning, when they exploded for five runs.

Starter Larry Shannon was taken from the game in the 7th inning with an ankle injury after allowing six hits and holding the Lelands to three runs.

He was hit on the foot by a line drive off the bat of Leland rightfielder Ray Fujikawa, and was replaced by Steve Yarrow. Kamloops 010 000 21x Merritt 010 000 11x

"Why, because we're playing the Giants?" Drysdale asked, grinning.

No, said the doctor, because your finger is fractured.

That's the news the right-handed ace of Los Angeles Dodgers' pitching staff received Thursday on his 29th birthday.

Burdette's Bat Knocks Giants 2 Games Off Pace

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When Chicago Cubs picked up Lew Burdette from St. Louis Cardinals last month, some people wondered why in the world they wanted a 31-year-old pitcher who hadn't had a winning season in two years.

To beef up their batting strength, that's why.

At least the onetime ace of Milwaukee Braves' mound staff made it look that way Thursday night as he pounded a home run, a triple and two singles to give the Cubs a commanding 13-4 triumph over San Francisco. That dropped the Giants two games off the National League pace.

Inevitably, a reporter asked Burdette afterwards what he had last collected four hits in a game.

"In 1921," the pitcher deadpanned.

WIDEN EDGE With Burdette's help, Philadelphia Phillies took the biggest edge over the Giants that either contender has enjoyed in a month by staggering to a 13-4 victory over the Braves in 10 innings. The third-place Cincinnati Reds snipped a five-game losing streak by shading New York Mets 3-4. Pittsburgh Pirates hammered St. Louis 8-5 and Los Angeles Dodgers nipped Houston 5-4.

Billy Williams and Len Gabrielson also tagged Billy O'Dell for homers as the San Francisco starter was bombed for 12 runs and 11 hits in seven innings. Manager Alvin Dark said there in hopes of sharpening the team that he left his starter in as a replacement for the injured Jack Sanford in his pitching rotation.

While O'Dell was laboring, Burdette was thriving. He had a 12-0 lead before the Giants scored, eventually was tagged for homers by Orlando Cepeda and Jim Hart but had little difficulty bringing his record to 7-2. It was his sixth victory since he was traded to the Cubs by St. Louis.

TWO FOR JOHN Johnny Callison hit two homers for the Phillies, accounting for five runs, and Gene Oliver and Denis Menke connected for the Braves as the lead changed hands three times in the last two innings.

In the 10th, winning pitcher Jack Balderson singled and Richie Allen, who had made two costly errors, bested an infield hit, loading the bases.

Cookie Rojas followed with a two-run double that snapped the tie.

The Reds beat the Mets with the aid of sixth-inning errors by Rod Kanehl and Charlie Smith sandwiched around a single by John Edwards, that accounted for the winning run.

Bob Bailey and Bill Virdon each collected a homer among their three hits as the Pirates thumped Mike Cuellar and barge wound up the three-game series at St. Louis with 6-1 hits and 11 runs.

The Dodgers trailed 4-3 going into the ninth when Nate O'N ver's single, a walk and Maury Wills' single produced a run. Willie Davis then beat out an infield hit, loading the bases, and Ron Fairly wrapped it up with a two-out, two-run single.
